

MICHAEL D. REEVE

Manuscripts and Methods

Essays on Editing and Transmission

Roma, Edizioni di Storia e Letteratura, 2011, pp. xviii-434, € 62,00 - ISBN 978-88-6372-302-1

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Introduction	VII
Bibliography	XIII
I. THE ORIGINAL
1. Errori in autografi	3
II. STEMMATIC METHOD
2. Stemmatic method: «qualcosa che non funziona»?	27
3. Da Madvig a Maas, con deviazioni	45
4. Shared innovations, dichotomies, and evolution	55
III. ARCHETYPES
5. Archetypes	107
6. Reconstructing archetypes: a new proposal and an old fallacy	119
IV. EXEMPLAR AND COPY
7. Misunderstanding marginalia	135
8. Eliminatio codicum descriptorum : a methodological problem	145
9. Manuscripts copied from printed books	175
10. A proposal about Modestus, scriptor rei militaris	185

V. HISTORY AND GEOGRAPHY

11. A man on a horse	211
12. Some applications of Pasquali's «criterio geografico» to 15th-century latin manuscripts.	221
13. The rediscovery of classical texts in the Renaissance	229
14. Classical scholarship in the Renaissance.	255

VI. EPISODES IN EDITING

15. Inspecting the foundations: reflections on Lupus's edition of Livy I-X	285
16. John Wallis, editor of Greek mathematical texts.	297
17. Gruppenarbeit an Handschriften.	315
18. Dust and fudge: manuscripts in Housman's generation	323
19. Cuius in usum ? Recent and future editing	339
20. Editing classical texts with a computer: Hyginus's Astronomica . .	361
Bibliographical note	395
Addenda.	397

INDEXES

General Index	403
Index of manuscripts and incunables.	423